Cotton Gone From Hempstead, and Use Shrinking in U.S.

The year your editor came to Hope, 1929, Hempstead county produced 32,000 bales of cotton. Twenty-five years later there wasn't enough cotton grown in our county to show on the official listing.

The cotton story is well known in these parts. Field hands drifted away to metropolitan areas. The mechanical cotton-picker came in for a while, but never really scored here because we lack the great stretches of flat blackland that are an economic feature of East Arkansas.

Farmers began to lease out or sell their cotton acreage allotments—and the staple that once had a Hempstead county label on it in a special listing at the Liverpool Exchange in England was gone forever.

The unfair fact in the death of local cotton was that as our production went out new production came in on the irrigated lands of Arizona and California. Here was a case of the federal government helping desert dwellers grow cotton on land irrigated with federal funds or credit.

But wherever King Cotton went time is running out on him, just as it ran out in Hempstead county. The authoritative Wall Street Journal reported Jan. 24 that "Cotton may be pricing itself out of the market." The crucial price seems to be 38c a pound. At that point, I gather from the WSJ article by Stephen Josefik, manufacturers quit making all-cotton cloth and turn to a blend of cotton and man-made fibers—known as the polyester.

High-priced cotton has stimulated the production of polyester until today it matches cotton in weight produced.

That's the story of King Cotton since he left our parts.

Georgia and Oklahoma were also added Thursday to those states where regional outbreaks of the disease have been detected.

Through the week ending Jan. 22, the center said, 920 deaths from influenza or pneumonia were reported in the 122 cities which the center uses to measure the rate of mortality from respiratory illnesses.

Previously listed as states with widespread outbreaks of flu were Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Nebraska, Delaware and Colorado.

The list of states where regional outbreaks have been reported also includes New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Maryland, North Carolina, Texas, Louisiana, Idaho, Montana and Oregon.

Isolated outbreaks have been reported in Vermont, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Missouri, Florida, South Carolina, Alabama, Utah, Washington, Hawaii and California.

At the request of breeders, financial people and interested citizens, a meeting was called with the Administration of the Division of Agriculture and some 38 individuals from Southwest Arkansas to coordinate a unified effort in securing funds for 20 additional units or stalls.

The following people from Hope that have, in the past, done much to support the Southwest Branch Experiment Station program were present. Blocks Texas District Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court blocked temporarily today a plan for redistricting Texas' U.S. House seats. The court acted at the request of state officials. The plan had been imposed last Saturday by a three-judge federal panel in Dallas to supplant a redistricting arrangement passed by the Texas legislature.

Two Officers Are Brutally Slain

By RICHARD BOUDREAUX
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two young city policemen, who had been Marine Corps buddies in Vietnam, were fatally shot Thursday night in what officials called an "out-and-out assassination."

Deputy Police Commissioner Robert Daley said the two men had walked past their killers on a street in Manhattan's East Village and were shot in the back.

The officers had volunteered for one of the city's new neighborhood police teams and had asked to be partners because of their experiences together in Vietnam.

Sgt. Frederick Reddy, commander of the team, called them "two of the best men we had—young, aggressive, intelligent—tough but fair."

Witnesses told police they saw three men fleeing from the scene, one of them waving a gun aloft and firing into the air as if in glee. The attackers took the service revolvers of both policemen.

A police artist went to work on composite sketches of the three men, although there were no witnesses to the shooting itself.

Columbus Youth Killed

A Columbus youth was killed and two other persons injured Thursday afternoon in a two car head-on collision on State Highway 355, three miles south of Mineral Springs.

Danny McCorkle, 16, was killed. He was a passenger in a car driven by his brother, Ronald McCorkle, 21, who was injured. Also injured was Willie J. Stephens, 33, of Texarkana.

Howard County Sheriff Conrad Bagley said the McCorkle vehicle, traveling north toward Mineral Springs, was attempting to pass a truck when it struck the southbound Stephens vehicle.

Ronald McCorkle is reportedly in satisfactory condition following surgery at a Texarkana hospital for a fracture of the upper right leg and multiple lacerations. Stephens was treated at Howard County Hospital at Nashville and later admitted to Wadley Hospital in Texarkana where his condition is reported satisfactory. He sustained facial lacerations.

Howard County Sheriff Conrad Bagley said the McCorkle vehicle, traveling north toward

Enemy Offensive Signs Multiplied

SAIGON (AP) — Signs of an enemy offensive in the Tet lunar new year multiplied today and the big U.S. military base at nearby Bien Hoa has been placed on increased alert.

Field officers said the alert at Bien Hoa, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, was ordered after captured enemy prisoners told interrogators attacks were being planned in that area during Tet, which falls on Feb. 15.

In the central highlands, North Vietnamese troops were reported moving into positions to encircle a fire base on the frontier, a possible forerunner to a big attack.

The U.S. Command indicated that a higher state of readiness would be ordered shortly for all American forces throughout South Vietnam to guard against increased enemy rocket, mortar, sapper and terror attacks during Tet.

The command also reported the 20th air strike inside North Vietnam this year and the loss of two American aircraft due to mechanical failures.

The command said the strike inside North Vietnam was triggered Thursday afternoon when a radar site which controls a surface-to-air missile—SAM—battery began tracking U.S. planes conducting bombing operations against the Ho Chi Minh trail in neighboring Laos.

An F105 fighter used to draw enemy fire away from the slower B52 heavy bombers crossed into North Vietnam and fired one Shrike missile at the site with unknown results.

The command said there was no damage to U.S. aircraft.

The two aircraft lost were a Navy A7 jet that crashed shortly after taking off from a 7th Fleet carrier in the Tonkin Gulf Jan. 22 and a UH1 Huey helicopter that went down three days ago on the western side of the central highlands.

The pilot of the A7 was rescued and there were no casualties in the helicopter crash.

Gen. Cao Van Vien, chairman of South Vietnam's joint general staff, visited the border region along the central highlands today to review preparations for a North Vietnamese offensive expected there next month.

Vien conferred with the regional commander, Lt. Gen. Ngo Dzu, then took a helicopter to inspect some outposts including Ben Het.

Military spokesmen said that North Vietnamese troops apparently are attempting to encircle Fire Base 5, just south-east of Ben Het. The fire base was under siege during a North Vietnamese offensive last spring.

Spokesmen at Pleiku said electric sensors detected a company of North Vietnamese troops 5 1/2 miles west of the base Thursday night and moving toward it. Artillery and helicopter gunships went into action, but the results were not known, the spokesmen said.

Fire Base 5 is an artillery outpost in the rugged triborder region where the frontiers of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos meet, about 300 miles north of Saigon. It is one of a string of camps that guard South Vietnam's western border.

Railmen Get 42 Per Cent Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 42 per cent pay raise over 3 1/2 years is in store for 140,000 trainmen according to a contract the United Transportation Union has signed with the railroad industry.

The new contract, announced Thursday by the UTU and the National Railway Labor Conference, also contains new work rules the industry says will enable it to speed service and save millions.

The union had been refusing to implement the agreement, reached tentatively last Aug. 2 at the end of an 18-day strike. It had demanded assurances that any of the pay raises would not be cut by wage and price controls.

The Pay Board Tuesday adopted a resolution clearing the contract from its starting date of Jan. 1, 1970, to the present, and saying it intends to approve this year's scheduled 10 per cent raises if the work rules go into effect.

Among the changes the industry wanted are more flexible seniority, longer train runs between crew changes, more switching by road crews and elimination of extra pay for use of two-way radios.

Enemy Offered $2.5 Billion Aid

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam was told last year it might get up to $2.5 billion of a potential $7.5-billion, five-year U.S. postwar reconstruction program for Indochina following a peace settlement, Nixon administration officials have disclosed.

Administration strategists said also that the test still lies ahead on whether Hanoi will negotiate seriously on President Nixon's eight-point peace offer.

A current theory here is that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, reportedly building up for an offensive next month, will want to decide first whether South Vietnam can defend itself without U.S. troops and whether Nixon's offer has wide public support in the United States.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told newsmen Thursday he was somewhat encouraged because North Vietnamese negotiators did not reject Nixon's plan as it was publicly presented at Paris that morning, though they piled in on it. He said it was a good sign that they asked questions about it.

But Rogers acknowledged the continuing clash of goals. He said the North Vietnamese insist that a "Communist government takeover" in Saigon and "we can't accept that."

In his Tuesday night disclosure of secret negotiations by presidential adviser Henry

A. Kissinger in Paris, Nixon said an aid offer was made last July 26, but he gave no figures.

Administration officials said that the "illustrative" figure of $7.5 billion over 5 years for Indochina's reconstruction, with up to one-third going to North Vietnam, was given after Hanoi envoys had presented their secret nine-point settlement plan.

One of the nine points called for reparations, the officials said. They said the reparations demand was rejected because, in the U.S. view, to pay this would be an admission of guilt by the United States. For this reason Nixon's response totaled eight points instead of nine, they said, and the prospective U.S. aid following the war was outlined separately.

The $7.5 billion for the two Vietnams, Cambodia and Laos, if it came to pass, would be a massive amount by current U.S. economic-aid standards.

The Agency for International Development figures its worldwide economic-aid authorization this year at $1.87 billion. Nixon is seeking $2.26 billion for next year.

Elusive Japanese Sergeant Praised

AGANA, Guam (AP) — A Japanese army sergeant who evaded capture for almost 27 years after World War II won praise Friday from a U.S. admiral and got a visit from a childhood friend.

"I think you are a remarkable man and I have the greatest respect for what you did," Shioichi Yokoi, 58, was told by Rear Adm. Paul E. Pugh, commander of U.S. Navy Forces in the Marianas.

Yokoi replied, "I am humbled by the fact that an important man like the admiral would come to see me, a lowly sergeant."

The exchange came through the interpreter in the room of Guam Memorial Hospital, where Yokoi was taken after being discovered Monday by two fishermen near a cave where he had lived.

Yokoi told authorities he fled into the jungle rather than surrender to American forces which invaded Guam in 1944.

Hours after the admiral's visit, Yokoi was visited by Oshika Tokiyoshi, 43, a childhood friend from Nagoya Province.

The friends embraced and tears welled in Yokoi's eyes, said Eddie Duenas, Gov. Carlos Camacho's press secretary.

Duenas was the only other person allowed in the room during the reunion.

James Shintaku, honorary Japanese consul on Guam, said next Tuesday is the target date for Yokoi's return to Japan.

Authorities on Thursday went to the area where Yokoi had been hiding and removed the bones of two other soldiers from a cave near one in which Yokoi lived.

Yokoi had told authorities he buried the men after they became sick and died several years ago. He said he had been living alone since then.

Two other soldiers who fled with Yokoi and evaded capture until 1960 visited Yokoi earlier.

Favors 6 Year Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson has decreed the power of campaign contributions and advocated limiting presidents to one six-year term because "in the best interests of the nation."

Johnson, after a three-year absence from public office, said Thursday that the influence of campaign contributors on the people they support financially is "one of the most serious problems we have."

"I think every candidate for public office is beholden to groups and people with means," said Johnson, who held the presidency from the assassination of John F. Kennedy in 1963 until 1969.

In an hour-long interview with CBS news correspondent Walter Cronkite, Johnson acknowledged that contributions influenced him to some degree "in practically every campaign."

Many Students on Probation

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — A little more than one-sixth of Arkansas State University's students are on academic probation.

Of the 6,045 students, 1,419 are on probation for the spring semester.

Robert Moore, dean of students, said "It's something that we ought to look into very definitely."

He said one of the problems was the lack of communication between students and faculty.

"If students could come to faculty meetings and discuss problems and issues with teachers, I believe a rational decision could be reached," he said.

Moore said that there was a problem with grades, but he said it should be taken into consideration that the school's enrollment is up.

He also noted that 500 students made all A's fall semester.

Fog Adds to Texas Woes Weatherwise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ice storms intensified over much of Texas today as dense fog compounded the winter miseries of freezing rain, snow and bitter cold.

Some of the worst icing plagued the central part of the state around Corsicana and Ennis, putting a treacherous glaze on streets and roads.

The cold front bringing the nasty weather shoved all the way past Galveston on the Upper Texas Coast, stretching from there to Del Rio on the Mexican border and northward across the west side of the Texas Panhandle.

For a second day light snow fluttered down on parts of the Panhandle, extending southward past Childress.

Freezing rain caused warnings against hazardous driving conditions in North Central and Northeast Texas. There also were moderate thunderstorms in an area embracing Brownwood, Denton, Paris, Marshall and Temple.

Thick fog dropped visibility to zero in places over the Panhandle-Plains sector and far downstate along the coast, prompting further warnings to motorists.

Early morning temperatures went as low as 3 degrees above zero at Perryton in the north edge of the Panhandle, where the same mark was recorded the day before.

The mercury dropped to 10 at Amarillo and Dalhart, 14 at Childress, 21 at Mineral Wells, 22 at Abilene, 25 at Dallas, 26 at Fort Worth, 27 at Lubbock and 32 at El Paso.

Readings elsewhere ranged from the high 30s into the 60s, staying as high as 65 at Alice and 66 at Corpus Christi and McAllen.

While much of the state shivered in the cold Thursday afternoon, thermometers climbed to the nation's high of 86 at Alice and Kingsville in deep South Texas, where the front had not arrived.

Forecasters looked for the chilled air to finish enveloping the state and moisture to stop falling in all sections by Saturday morning. Clouds were expected to thin a bit in some areas.

Another night of bitter temperatures was in prospect, with readings down to 10 degrees in the Panhandle, the lower 20s in North Central and Northeast Texas, and the lower 30s in other sections.

Will Not Sign Print Contracts

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Thursday that he did not plan to sign four disputed state printing contracts that have been awarded by Secretary of State Kelly Bryant.

International Graphics, Inc., of Little Rock was the low bidder on the contracts, but Bryant refused to award the jobs to that firm because he said company officials failed to sign copies of general provisions that were attached to the bids.

The firm filed suit in Circuit Court here and Judge Warren E. Wood ruled that Bryant was wrong in not awarding the contracts to International, but he said the court did not have authority to change Bryant's decision.

Lawyers for International Graphics have indicated Wood's decision will be appealed to the Supreme Court. The governor said he will not sign the contracts until the matter is settled.

For the contracts to be valid, they must be signed by Bryant, the governor, state treasurer and state auditor.

Prior to Take a Sample

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., has opened an office in Little Rock to sample sentiment for his possible Democratic candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Pryor has said he is seriously considering running against Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

When asked about the office Thursday, Pryor said the office could be "abandoned or expanded," depending on what political office he seeks this year.

Weather Varies Over Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas had a variety of weather Thursday, but the ice storm predicted for Thursday night did not materialize.

There was some freezing rain in the northern portion of the state, in addition to light rain, but all roads were passable early this morning.

Cloudy skies and cool temperatures are in the forecast for the weekend.

The National Weather Service says tonight's lows will be near 10 in the north to the mid 20s in the south.

The highs Saturday will range from the low 30s to the mid 40s.

The highs Thursday ranged from 72 at El Dorado to 32 at Harrison.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville, 14; Jonesboro, 30; Pine Bluff, 38; Texarkana, 34; El Dorado, 43; Memphis, 37; Little Rock, 33 and Fort Smith 19.

Precipitation recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today included: .25 of an inch of rain at Fayetteville; .32 at Harrison; .40 at Jonesboro; .38 at Pine Bluff; .52 at Texarkana; .49 at El Dorado; 1.00 at Memphis; .32 at Little Rock and .18 at Fort Worth.

Against Dropping Marianna Charges

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP) — A proposal that criminal charges be dropped against students who were arrested Jan. 13 during a protest at Lee High School in Marianna was rejected late Thursday by school officials and law enforcement officers.

A special committee appointed by state Education Director Arch W. Ford recommended dismissal of the charges as one step to improve the situation in the troubled school system.

Pros. Atty. Gene Raff of Helena said he intended to prosecute warrants against the students as he would any other warrant. Raff made the statement after Sheriff Courtney Langston, school Supt. Henry C. Dial and School Board President Lon Mann said they opposed dropping the charges.

Mann said the committee gave a fair report but he disagreed with the part recommending dismissal of charges.

Human Rights Committee

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Department of Human Rights has a new women's advisory committee, but it doesn't have a chairman or a chairwoman.

The term was adopted to avoid designating the sex of the officeholder, even though in this case the chairperson is a woman, Ruth Stack, of Minneapolis.

Protests Candidate Protection

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to provide Secret Service protection for presidential candidates according to their standing in public-opinion polls could exclude two prominent Democratic hopefuls: Sens. George S. McGovern and Henry M. Jackson.

The plan, drawn up Thursday by the Candidate Protection Advisory Commission and likely to be accepted by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, could give protection to the party's most prominent noncandidate, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The protection is unlikely to begin until March 20, which means the current large field of Democratic candidates will have to campaign through the March 7 New Hampshire and March 14 Florida primaries without the aid of the Secret Service.

But those primaries could narrow the field of candidates.

Under the commission proposal, Secret Service protection would be provided starting March 20 to announced candidates receiving at least 5 per cent in either the Harris or Gallup polls, and unannounced candidates receiving 20 per cent in either poll "subject to the legal determination of the secretary of the Treasury under the law."

The most-recent polls show Sens. Edmund S. Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey well above 5 per cent, and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay at or barely above that figure.

McGovern and Jackson, however, are below the level in the latest Gallup poll, barely at it in a recent Harris poll.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, also seeking the Democratic presidential nomination prior to a likely repeat of his 1968 third-party race, has not been measured in the recent Gallup and Harris polls.

Other announced candidates below the 5-per-cent level include Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, Indiana Sen. Vance Hartke and New York Rep. Shirley Chisholm.

As for Kennedy, he has consistently run above the 20-per-cent mark in both polls, while stating he is not and won't be a candidate this year.

The plan for protection of candidates was enacted after the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy on the night of his victory in the California Democratic primary.

Winter Tightens Grip on Wide Section of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter tightened its grip over much of the nation today, glazing a wide area from the lower Midwest through the Appalachians with sleet and freezing rain and dumping heavy snow across the Great Lakes.

Arctic cold enveloped most of the midcontinent from the inland Pacific Northwest to the Great Lakes and south to the central Plains.

Ice-storm and freezing-rain warnings were out from Arkansas and Missouri through the Ohio Valley to Tennessee and West Virginia. Ice coated roads, trees and power lines throughout the region and east to Virginia.

Snow stretched from Lake Michigan to New York and Pennsylvania.

Travel warnings were posted from southern Connecticut to New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania because of combinations of snow, sleet and freezing rain.

To the south of the ice belt, rain was common from northern Alabama to Virginia.

The frigid weather in the western half of the nation kept the thermometer in Grand Island, Neb., from rising above -1 all day Thursday.

Rain and freezing rain chilled in northern Texas, while showers and snow flurries were scattered across Oregon and northern California.

Heavy snowfalls Thursday stranded hundreds of motorists in the Santa Cruz Mountains southeast of San Francisco and closed many minor highways. Snow also blanketed the higher hills around San Francisco Bay, giving many children their first sight of snow.

Sacramento, California's capital, had its first measurable snow in 30 years.

Temperatures ranged from 35 below zero at Havre, Mont., to 73 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Arkansans Held on Drug Charge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Two Arkansans have been jailed here in lieu of $25,000 bond each on charges of possessing and transporting illegal drugs.

Chief Bill Price identified the two as William E. Thacker, 24, of Jonesboro and William A. Fulkerson III, 21, of Paragould.

They were arrested Wednesday at Memphis International Airport, he said. Fulkerson was identified by police as an Arkansas State University student.

Police said the arrests involved the confiscation of LSD valued at $6 million.

The quantity was about one pound, police said.

There Is Reason for Hot Dog Being Red

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Meat Institute says the all-American hot dog is red for a reason.

The February issue of Consumer Reports charged that hot dogs were low in nutrition, with a low proportion of protein to filler and fats.

Aunan countered, "It is true that many foods, including some meats, have a higher percentage of protein, but that does not mean that hot dogs, with an average of 11 to 12 per cent protein, are not nutritious."

The AMI concluded its defense of the hog dog with the argument that 200 million Americans can't be wrong. Hot dogs, it said, are consumed by Americans at the rate of 60 per person a year.

Voluntary Pay Cut to Save Their Jobs

DETROIT (AP) — Rather than see the company they work for fold—and their jobs with it—the 225 hourly rated employees of a Detroit firm voted to take a 30-cent-an-hour pay cut for 10 months. It is the second time the unionists have helped save the company.

Members of UAW Local 771 employed at the Continental Die Casting Division of the F. L. Jacobs Co. voted 128-49 for the cut Thursday because the auto-industry supplier had announced Monday that the plant would be closed permanently today, blaming large operating deficits.

The company agreed salaried employees would take an equal pay cut.

Prior to the cut, the average hourly rate at the plant was $3.75, according to a union official. Continental, however, agreed to pay a 15-cent hourly increase in February 1973 and another 10-cent raise in June of 1972, the spokesman added.

Last year the workers voted to forego any wage increases for 15 months to help the company get back on its feet.

A company spokesman said the closing notice came because of its inability to get price relief from Ford Motor Co., its largest customer.

Disaster Area in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-five Arkansas counties were declared a disaster area Thursday by President Nixon because of severe storms and flooding that hit the western portion of the state in mid-December.

Nixon acted after Gov. Dale Bumpers and Sen. J. W. Fulbright reported damages estimated at more than $3.5 million to public and private property. The White House said the estimate did not include agricultural properties and livestock.

The action makes the state eligible to receive federal aid to repair, and restore, public facilities.

The counties in the area include Baxter, Boone, Carroll, Conway, Crawford, Franklin, Fulton, Izard, Hempstead, Howard, Johnson, Little River, Logan, Madison, Marion, Miller, Montgomery, Newton, Perry, Polk, Scott, Sebastian, Sevier, Stone and Yell.

Sailor Suit Is Out

By ALISON LERRICK

AP Fashions Writer

PARIS (AP) — The sailor suit has already spilled out of the Paris couture showings this week and into the Boulevard St. Germain. But you can pay more for it at Patou in navy sequins or at Ricci in navy and white crepe. Givenchy sews a sailor collar onto almost everything, including his bride.

The antebellum belle has also been titillating her way through the salons this week. Patou, Ricci and even Courreges have a couple. There's nothing wrong with plaid taffeta, white frills and ruffles, but the dress is not the same without a hoop. The bare look is important, too, specially when you take fabric prices into account. If you don't want to wear a halter, try Givenchy's long dresses with cutouts or his linen pants and tops with the bare midriff.

Larocche likes a jeweled bra for evening. Patou and Lanvin prefer a bathing suit top, even if it does hide the navel. Patou's is in sashed navy silk crepe, Lanvin's in gold lame. Everyone has a mile or so of ruffles, lace and frills, including Givenchy, whose trademark is the ruffle.

It's dangerous to talk about Ungaro. Either you like him or you don't, but either way you feel strongly about it. His clothes are printed as always in daisies, checks and slashes of conflicting colors, but many people objected to the 1940 turbans or the bushy hair his models wore.

He was one of the few to

Discusses Drug Control

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Rep. W. F. Foster of England said Thursday that it might be a mistake to consider new drug control legislation at the special legislative session scheduled to begin Feb. 7.

Foster, who testified before a special legislative committee studying drug abuse, said the special session would allow only a limited amount of time for discussion of drug proposals.

Foster said that new drug control legislation would affect a lot of people and there was considerable disagreement over what should be in a new drug control bill.

The committee concluded three days of hearings Thursday. Rep. Leon Holstad of North Little Rock, chairman of the committee, said a report on the hearings would be issued next week.

show a mini, in flounced satin, and shorts, baggy enough to fit a tubby golfer. Feraud had white minis with wool roses and Courreges also had shorts, with t-shirts, which looked like what a truck driver would take a nap in.

Navy, white and red are classic, but the designers have more fun with prints, especially roses. Givenchy's roses are green, Dior's are white, and Gres likes thousands of daisies for fluttering chiffon dresses. Lanvin goes in for ladybugs.

You can wear your coat bulky and sashed at Dior or with short sleeves to show a printed shirt at Patou. But please don't forget your hat. Dior is making the smallest berets this season and Givenchy has the stiffest ones. Everyone has either a Maurice Chevalier straw boater, black at Feraud, or a Sunday school roller with grosgrain ribbon. Chanel's straw wears its brim down, gangster-style, and Patou has the biggest hat of all, to balance evening dresses with floating pleated skirts.

The pants are the best thing this season, in crepe, silk and soft wools. They come with printed shirts and blazers, checked or chalk and awning-striped. The long sashed cardigan is even softer, whether over pants or printed to match the new pleated shirtdress, as at Ricci.

Helen Bottel Helen Help Us!

Is Nothing Sacred?

DEAR HELEN:
Am I a prude?
I watch television with my teenage and younger children, and see these commercials come on advertising feminine deodorants, and even more personal items, and I cringe.

I now hear that Women's Lib wants birth control advertised on TV. (They're already warning against VD on every station—but this, I admit, makes sense.) Can't a woman have any privacy? Part of her mystique is her personal hygiene. It doesn't need TV coverage! Moreover, I've recently heard that these feminine deodorants contain ingredients that may be dangerous. —M.J.P.

P.S. Women's Liberation would be more useful if they picketed theaters which showed movies that degrade women, rather than bars which exclude them.

DEAR M.:
(Liberationists seldom picket male bars any more—that was a publicity gimmick. They DO go after magazines, entertainment—even columnists—who show male chauvinist tendencies. See letter at end of this column.)

As for TV commercials, you'll have to admit they're quite tasteful—never calling a spade a spade, or even indicating what the real use for the product is. Have you noticed? TV ads plug bathroom cleaners but the commode is conspicuously absent—except for a small unrecognizable part of the rim. Also, you hear deodorant commercials several times an hour, but I've yet to see an underarm in one of these pitches.

My contention is: if you enjoy television, then live with the ads—for they pay the tab. —H.

DEAR HELEN:
This is in answer to the girl who was a non-virgin, engaged to a guy who wouldn't take "Yes" for an answer and insisted on waiting until marriage.

I feel she would be unwise to marry him under these circumstances for several reasons: First, if he is hung-up on no premarital sex, what does he really, deep-down think of her? Does he respect her or consider her a tramp—because she isn't "pure"? Later on, might his real feelings come out?

Second, if she had enough sexual desire to have indulged in the past, and he has not, she might have a stronger drive than he, and be left unsatisfied in her marriage. Also, if she is relatively experienced and he is not, he might resent her being the "teacher."

My reason for writing is that I had a similar experience. Neither my future husband nor I were virgins. However, he wanted to wait for marriage and I agreed. What a mistake! Had I lived with him before our marriage I would have called it off, much as I love him. His real personality came out in the marriage bed. He was totally selfish, looked down on any desire on my part, and to put it briefly, these attitudes wrecked our marriage. We were divorced in less than six months, a shattering experience. (He saw no need to change.)

I realize that "trying it out" wouldn't save every marriage, but at least you would learn much about your partner by his (or her) reactions to loving, giving, sharing, enjoying. Too many people are still subconsciously repulsed by sex—and this feeling that it is "dirty" turns their whole lives wrong side out. They say that sex is only a small part of marriage, but if it's all wrong, it can be the most disastrous part. —LEARNED TOO LATE

DEAR HELEN:
I was saddened by your answer to "Hurt," whose husband buys Playboy magazine, and takes business associates to topless bars. How can you laugh off the problem since he is "only a spectator sport?"

Women are PEOPLE, not scenery. They aren't to be used as sex objects. "Beauty" isn't as important as "character" and a man should not be a voyeur. The women's movement has a long way to go because women like you view themselves as objects rather than human beings. —A.M.

DEAR A.:
Oh, come on—let the guy enjoy life a little. And for heaven's sake, when will you Liberationists develop a sense of humor! —H.

Pros Think College Talent Lean

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — The man whose talent hunts helped build the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys says the 1971 graduating college football crop is the poorest he has seen since he's been in the business.

Gil Brandt, now a club vice president, has thoroughly studied the detailed reports of Dallas' computerized draft system and come to the conclusion: "It's the leanest year I've ever seen."

Brandt says "I hope we can get just one player out of the draft Tuesday to help us. There aren't any lead pipe cinches like last year ... not many blue chip players."

"For example, there were three quarterbacks last year who were cinches," Brandt explains. "We think the only blue chips this year are Walt Patulski, Notre Dame defensive tackle, Bobby Moore, Oregon running back, John Reeves, Florida quarterback, and William Buchanan, San Diego State defensive back."

Brandt says the Cowboys still may come up with a surprise in the draft but not on the order of a Calvin Hill or a Duane Thomas—players other clubs overlooked in the 1969 and 1970 drafts.

"There aren't any undiscovered phenoms out there anymore because all the scouting groups are becoming more efficient," Brandt says.

Brandt says, for example, other teams are beginning to comb the small black colleges.

"We were probably the first to actively visit the small black schools," Brandt says. "Remember, we got Jethro Pugh (defensive tackle) and Rayfield Wright (All-Pro offensive tackle) in the draft. Pugh was a 10th round choice and Wright seventh round. Last year Grambling had two players go in the first round. It's not our private preserve anymore although we did get Isaac Thomas from Bishop College last year. However, we had to take him in the second round."

Brandt was asked the reason for the poor quality of the college players now graduating.

"Well, I believe the 1.6 grade point rule is catching up with some of the kids," Brandt says. "There is a lot of good raw material that never gets to college. The Vietnam draft took some kids. And there is not as great an interest in football on the college level among the young people as there was say 10 years ago. Plus, there are not as many kids on scholarship. The schools are cutting down there. There are a number of things—and they all add up."

Gamecocks Win Over Fordham

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer
Some rather large leprechauns gave Irish Frank McGuire the kind of homecoming he dreams about Thursday night, when McGuire's 11th-ranked South Carolina Gamecocks invaded New York's Madison Square Garden and came away with a 100-77 romp over Fordham.

"I'd rather win in Madison Square Garden than any other place in the country," said a smiling McGuire after the game. "This is where you make the news."

This is also where McGuire hails from, and more importantly, this is where much of his recruiting is centered.

McGuire's most productive leprechaun against Fordham was 6-foot-10 senior forward Tom Riker, who poured in 42 points, a career high. Riker sank 19 of 21 field goal attempts against the Rams.

His biggest leprechaun was 7-foot junior center Danny Traylor, who scored only 10 points—he took only six shots—but picked off 15 rebounds as the Gamecocks outrebounded Fordham 48-31.

South Carolina is now 11-3, Fordham 11-5.

Forward Rick Aydtlett and guard Kevin Joyce scored 15 apiece for South Carolina, while Ken Charles paced Fordham with 26 points, although he missed 20 of his 32 shots.

Adding to the homecoming theme, three of McGuire's five starters—Riker, Joyce and guard Brian Winters, come from suburbs of New York, as do reserves Bob Carver, Jimmy Powell and Billy Grimes.

In the only other game involving a nationally-ranked team, Southern California, No. 7, lost its second game in two nights, bowing to Seattle 65-64. Backcourtman Howard Ladd led all scorers with 22 points, including 18 in the second half, but it was a lay-up by Steve Bravard with 37 seconds to go which sank USC.

The Trojans, whose star guard, Paul Westphal, was sidelined with a bruised left knee, were paced by Ron Riley's 19 points.

In other major games, guard Larry Finch sank a 15-foot jump shot with five seconds showing on the clock to give Memphis State a 71-69 Missouri Valley Conference victory over Wichita State; Mike Laughna scored 24 points, including five in overtime, as Georgetown, D.C., slipped past William & Mary 85-79, and Duquesne sophomore Lionel Billings exploded for 32 points as the Dukes, 13-2, whipped Boston College 93-79.

Also, Cleo Kilgore's 22 points sparked Drake past North Texas 76-70, Tulsa used a tight full-court press to stifle Arkansas State 86-60 and Houston overwhelmed Southern Mississippi 102-63 as Dwight Jones scored 24 points and grabbed 20 rebounds.

The nation's top-ranked small college team, Eau Claire State of Wisconsin, boosted its record to 14-1 by overpowering St. Cloud, Minn. 86-69.

"I'm a little upset about it. I'm not happy about leaving a contender. I don't think any two or three players can make a contender out of a club," Grim said of the Giants, adding that he felt Tarkenton is a fine quarterback "but I think Minnesota gave up too much to get him."

Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks agreed his team gave up a lot, "but I don't think we've destroyed the nucleus for our club."

Tarkenton came off the Georgia campus as the Vikings' No. 3 draft choice in 1961, their first year of play as an NFL expansion team. Six seasons later he went to the Giants in exchange for four valuable draft picks.

Victory Keeps Local Girls in Tournament

By BILL MOORE

Star Sports Writer

Using a strong second quarter, the Hope Ladycats picked up the momentum they needed to coast in to a 62-59 victory over a strong Highland Rebel team in the second round of the Joe T. Robinson Tournament.

Hope, with a present 10-7 record, will now move into the quarterfinal round against Norphlet at noon tomorrow. With a victory there, the Ladycats would play in the semifinals tomorrow night.

Starting out in a repeat performance of Tuesday night's game, the Ladycats fell back 3-0, before Janet McCain hit a free throw with 5:23 showing on the clock. Shots by McCain and Dee Singleton kept Hope close during the rest of the period.

Shots by Singleton and McCain kept the Ladycats close in the first few minutes before McCain knotted the score up at 24-All with 1:36 left in the period. A few seconds later Singleton hit both ends of a one and one situation from the free throw line and Gigi Gladney hit from close in to pull out.

Immediately after the break, Hope took the tipoff and held on with McCain hitting layups. With 2:59 left in the period, Gladney hit a two pointer, but missed the free shot that went with it, but McCain rebounded and put the ball back up for a 43-30 lead.

A little over a minute later, McCain sank another field goal to give the Ladycats their biggest lead of the game at 15 points, 47-32, but lost out the rest of the period to let Highland back in the game with only eight points separating a tie score, the margin now at 47-39.

Grabbing off the last period tip, Hope proceeded to move the ball down with McCain sinking a class shot to widen the margin again to 10 points, but for the most part the margin narrowed.

Free throws by McCain and a jumpshot by Singleton kept the Ladycats lead at nine, 55-46, with 2:41 left in the game, but after a Hope time out the score started getting close.

With hitting both ends of a one and one on two different occasions and McCain getting a pair of charity shots with 45 seconds left, Hope maintained a 62-55 lead, but after Highland hit two quick field goals within seconds, the lead was narrowed to the final three points and the score, although the Rebels attempted a missed shot at the buzzer.

McCain hit 31 points, Singleton collected 27, and Gladney added four. Playing a real fine defensive battle and outrebounding the Rebel offense were guards Betty Ruth Honeycutt, Janice Hobson, Mona Rowe, Sandra Hamilton, and Judy Reyenga.

Also tonight, the Bobcats and Bobkittens travel to Camden for a conference tilt at 6:30 p.m.

Hope's Junior Teams won a pair from Foreman and Prescott to advance to the finals of the Nashville Invitational Tournament last night.

In the first game the Hope Kitty Cats literally walked away from the Prescott Junior girls by a score of 45-24.

Prescott drew first blood but they were not to score again until Hope had 10 points on the board. This set the pace for the quarter as the score ended Hope 14, Prescott 6.

The second was all Hope as they continued to tear away at Prescott's defense to possess a 22-11 margin as they retired to the dressing rooms.

The third quarter story was about identical as forwards Pogo Griffin, Gail East, and Susan Henley continued to make it look easy as they rolled up 18 points to Prescott's 9 to hold a 40-20 lead at the third quarter's end.

The fourth quarter turned into a defensive battle as neither team could hit the basket but guards Janie York, Bonnie Roy and Melissa Reese held on and Hope had its first victory over Prescott this year.

Pogo Griffin led Hope with 23, Gail East followed with 17 and Susan Henley sacked 5, also guards, Janie York, Melissa Reese, and Bonnie Roy are to be commended for holding Prescott's fine offense to only 24 points.

In the second game, the Bobkittens defeated Foreman by a score of 52-47.

The first quarter Hope held out to hold a skimpy lead of 8-6 in a defensive battle.

The second quarter Hope finally found the mark as they outscored the Gators to hold a 22-17 lead at the half.

The third quarter was mostly Hope as they began to hit consistently and tightened up on defense to own a 35-27 lead.

Late in the fourth quarter Foreman staged a comeback to come within one point at a score of 48-47 but Hope scored 4 straight points to win 52-47.

Slippery Ball
When the Buffalo Bills recovered seven Cincinnati fumbles in a 1969 game, they set the NFL record for most opponents' bobbles grabbed in a single game.

With the guards now getting the ball at midcourt on Rebel mistakes, the Ladycat offense added four more points as Singleton hit a 15 footer from the side and McCain hit a driving layup with 13 seconds left to push the Ladycats out to a 32-24 halftime margin.

McCain sank another field goal to give the Ladycats their biggest lead of the game at 15 points, 47-32, but lost out the rest of the period to let Highland back in the game with only eight points separating a tie score, the margin now at 47-39.

Grabbing off the last period tip, Hope proceeded to move the ball down with McCain sinking a class shot to widen the margin again to 10 points, but for the most part the margin narrowed.

Free throws by McCain and a jumpshot by Singleton kept the Ladycats lead at nine, 55-46, with 2:41 left in the game, but after a Hope time out the score started getting close.

With hitting both ends of a one and one on two different occasions and McCain getting a pair of charity shots with 45 seconds left, Hope maintained a 62-55 lead, but after Highland hit two quick field goals within seconds, the lead was narrowed to the final three points and the score, although the Rebels attempted a missed shot at the buzzer.

McCain hit 31 points, Singleton collected 27, and Gladney added four. Playing a real fine defensive battle and outrebounding the Rebel offense were guards Betty Ruth Honeycutt, Janice Hobson, Mona Rowe, Sandra Hamilton, and Judy Reyenga.

Also tonight, the Bobcats and Bobkittens travel to Camden for a conference tilt at 6:30 p.m.

Hope's Junior Teams won a pair from Foreman and Prescott to advance to the finals of the Nashville Invitational Tournament last night.

In the first game the Hope Kitty Cats literally walked away from the Prescott Junior girls by a score of 45-24.

Prescott drew first blood but they were not to score again until Hope had 10 points on the board. This set the pace for the quarter as the score ended Hope 14, Prescott 6.

The second was all Hope as they continued to tear away at Prescott's defense to possess a 22-11 margin as they retired to the dressing rooms.

The third quarter story was about identical as forwards Pogo Griffin, Gail East, and Susan Henley continued to make it look easy as they rolled up 18 points to Prescott's 9 to hold a 40-20 lead at the third quarter's end.

The fourth quarter turned into a defensive battle as neither team could hit the basket but guards Janie York, Bonnie Roy and Melissa Reese held on and Hope had its first victory over Prescott this year.

Pogo Griffin led Hope with 23, Gail East followed with 17 and Susan Henley sacked 5, also guards, Janie York, Melissa Reese, and Bonnie Roy are to be commended for holding Prescott's fine offense to only 24 points.

In the second game, the Bobkittens defeated Foreman by a score of 52-47.

The first quarter Hope held out to hold a skimpy lead of 8-6 in a defensive battle.

The second quarter Hope finally found the mark as they outscored the Gators to hold a 22-17 lead at the half.

The third quarter was mostly Hope as they began to hit consistently and tightened up on defense to own a 35-27 lead.

Late in the fourth quarter Foreman staged a comeback to come within one point at a score of 48-47 but Hope scored 4 straight points to win 52-47.

Hats Fly in NHL Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The hats were flying Thursday night. Phil Esposito scored three goals to spark the Boston Bruins, leaders in the National Hockey League's East Division, to a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers.

Nick Libett tallied all three Detroit goals as the Red Wings blunted the Buffalo Sabres 3-1. Lou Nanne, completing the first hat trick of his five-year NHL career, netted the winning goal at 16:27 of the final period as the Minnesota North Stars tripped the Montreal Canadiens 6-5—despite a three-goal outburst from Montreal's Frank Mahovlich.

In the only other NHL game, Cliff Koroll scored two goals and netminder Tony Esposito recorded his third consecutive shutout as the Chicago Black Hawks blanked the Vancouver Canucks 4-0.

Phil Esposito regained the NHL scoring lead with his trio, which raised his scoring figures to 42 goals and 84 points, three points ahead of New York's Jean Ratelle, who edged out Esposito for the scoring lead at the halfway point this season. Last season Esposito rewrote the NHL records with 76 goals and 152 points.

Libett, in his fifth season with Detroit, raised his season goal total to 17 with his trio.

After Buffalo's Rick Martin put the Sabres ahead 1-0 with his 34th goal of the season, Libett tied the score late in the first period, put the Wings ahead 2-1 at 8:51 of the third period, then completed the scoring into an open net with 11 seconds left to play.

Nanne, switched from defense to forward last season, had only scored 10 goals in four previous NHL seasons. His three goals against the Canadiens gave him 16 for the 1971-72 season.

Mahovlich's hat trick was the 13th of his 15-year career and raised his season total to 25. Rookie Guy Lafleur added two goals for Montreal, while Dean Prentice, Jean-Paul Parise and Tom Reid connected for Minnesota.

Esposito, who leads the NHL with six shutouts, got all the offensive support he needed on 1:55 of the first period when Koroll slid the puck into an open net after goalie Dunc Wilson had moved to block a shot by Dennis Hull. Stan Mikita and Jim Pappin also scored in the first period, then Koroll closed out the scoring midway through the second period.

Bobby Hull failed to pick up an assist for the first time in 22 games and had to settle for a tie with former Boston star Bronco Horvath for the NHL record.

ABA Stars in 5th Game

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Disgruntled by the "black tie affair" but safe from the thunder of Archie Bunker, the American Basketball Association's top stars converged on Louisville today to prepare for Saturday night's 5th Annual ABA All-Star game.

Some players came grumbling over having to dress formally for tonight's league dinner—a pomp and ceremony affair for leagues big-wigs and fans willing to cough up $15 per ticket.

"Where does a guy 6-foot-8 find a tuxedo to fit?" mumbled New York Nets star Rick Barry, one of the East's starting forwards.

"If Artis Gilmore, who is 7-foot-2, can find a tux," retorted Kentucky Colonels general manager Mike Storen, perpetrator of the black tie edict, "then Barry can find one. I hope he has that much class."

The East, bolstered by the presence of eight of the ABA's top 10 scorers and with super-rookie Gilmore providing an intimidating force in the pivot, is favored to break the series' 2-2 tie by repeating its victory of a year ago.

The game will be televised to 70 major markets nationally on a special American Basketball Association Network, with tip-off at 8:30 p.m. EST. That's a half-hour later than originally planned because, one official said, it would avoid conflict with the CBS series "All in the Family" and its beloved bigot, Archie Bunker.

Gilmore will be joined in the East starting lineup by Kentucky's Dan Issel and New York's Barry at forwards, and Virginia's Charlie Scott and New York's Bill Melchionni at guards.

Colonels Now Helping Utah

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kentucky Colonels have a comfortable lead in the East Division of the American Basketball Association, so now they are giving help to Utah, the leader in the West.

The Colonels, sporting a 9½-game lead, played Indiana, No. 2 in the West, Thursday night and dispatched the Pacers 98-94 to drop them four games behind the division-leading Stars.

Utah, for its part, defeated the Memphis Pros 127-120. In other ABA games, Carolina defeated the Floridians 102-101, New York topped Virginia 114-112, and Dallas beat Denver 99-98.

Kentucky trailed by as many 12 points but came on strong in the fourth quarter behind the shooting of Dan Issel with 24 points and Cincy Powell and Artis Gilmore, each with 23. Mel Daniels had 23 points to lead the Pacers.

The Stars' Willie Wise and James Jones pumped in 36 and 35 points, respectively, in the victory over the Pros. Utah did not gain the decisive lead until just 1:45 remained in the game. Memphis had led most of the second half, and held a four-point margin with 4:29 to play. It was the biggest lead for either team until the end. Warren Davis and Johnny Neumann each scored 27 points to pace the Pros.

Jim McDaniels sank a pair of foul shots to give his team its one-point victory. The Cougars held off the Floridians for the remaining 1:30. The Floridians had three chances to score in that time but were subbed at each opportunity by Carolina.

McDaniels led the Cougars with 30 points, and Joe Caldwell had 21. Warren Jabali and Al Tucker scored 27 points each for the Floridians.

Rick Barry hit 44 points, 30 in the first half, to lead New York. The Nets scored 10 straight points in the last 2½ minutes to ice the game. John Roche contributed 20 and Bill Paulitz 22 to the Net attack. Virginia's Charlie Scott had 33 points and rookie Julius Erving 28.

Two long passes from Rich Jones to Donnie Freeman to Al Hamilton resulted in the winning basket for the Dallas Chaps, giving them a fifth straight victory. The play came on a rebound of a foul shot by Denver's Al Smith with six seconds left in the contest. Freeman scored 33 points, and Hamilton 18.

How to Get the Creaks Out of Your Stairway

By MR. FIX

Stairs that squeak and creak are both annoying and potentially dangerous. The noise is a sound of wear, of loose boards or of faulty construction.

Bannisters that won't bear your weight if you fall and hang on are worse than no bannisters at all. At least without them you won't have a false sense of security. As something merely decorative they are unsafe.

You should understand how a stairway is constructed. The tread is the horizontal board, the one you step on. The riser is the vertical board on which the tread rests. Generally the tread hangs out over the riser for an inch or so and molding covers the seam on the underside.

A handrail on the outside or the open side of a stairway is supported at the front end by a newell post. Balusters are small posts supporting the rail between rail and step. Rails along a wall are supported by special brackets fastened to the wall.

Friction between the tread and riser is the cause of squeaking. If the treads are nailed to the riser, use nails or screws to reinforce them. If they have been fitted with tongue and groove construction, use wedges.

If you are uncertain of the construction and there are nails in full view, pry off the molding to check.

If the tread was nailed, drive finishing nails in pairs slanted toward each other through the tread and into the riser. You will have to force the tread down.

Long thin wood screws can be used. Countersink the heads so they are below the surface.

If the stairs are of tongue and groove construction, remove the molding and drive thin wood wedges into the joint. Coat the wedge with glue for added strength. Trim off the excess wedge.

If the rail is loose, check the newell post that supports it. Whether fastened to wall, floor or stair strengthen with additional wood screws. Use angle irons if necessary. Rotted posts (a condition that can happen outdoors) should be replaced.

Rails fastened to the wall can loosen due to the loosening of the brackets that support them. Replace loose screws. If driven into plaster use anchors, toggle bolts or expanding shields. If you can locate the studs in the wall it's wise to run long screws into the stud.

SO YOU WANT TO BE Prospects Are Healthy For Nursing Careers

By ERNIE HOOD

Debra A. Alexandria, Va., asks: "What are the career prospects in practical nursing?"

Dear Debra: Excellent. As a matter of fact, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reports a probable growth rate of 87.5 per cent in the period 1968-1980.

There were an estimated 320,000 licensed practical nurses at most recent count, and projected requirements by 1980 total 600,000 — with openings at the rate of 48,000 a year: 23,000 new openings and 25,000 replacements.

All states and the District of Columbia license practical nurses. Usually only candidates who have passed an examination are licensed. Generally at least two years of high school must be completed to enroll in practical nursing courses.

Related questions from other gals also involve careers as hospital attendants, and here, too, BLS projects an identical growth rate of 87.5 per cent.

There were 800,000 hospital attendants at most recent count, and there will be an estimated 1.5 million in the field by 1980. Annual openings are projected at 100,000; 58,000 in growth and 42,000 replacements.

Although some institutions hire persons with less than a high school education, high school graduates are definitely preferred. Hospital attendants usually learn their skills on the job with some supplemented classroom work.

Frank C., Chicago, Ill., inquires: "I think I'd like a career as a state police officer. Can you give me some idea of the opportunities?"

Dear Frank: There is a projected growth rate of 47.7 per cent in the 10-year period terminating in 1980. There are about 35,000 state police officers across the country at this writing, and our Labor Department people estimate this number will be upped to about 52,000 by 1980. Annual openings will be at the rate of about 2,800—1,700 through growth and 1,100 through replacement.

Incidentally, most states require that applicants have a high school education or an equivalent combination of education and experience. In all states, recruits enter a formal training program that extends over periods of several months.

Aside to Les B., Norman, Okla.: Sorry, but the FBI doesn't list its projected personnel requirements. For your guidance—An applicant must have graduated from a state-accredited resident law school or a four-year resident college with a major in accounting. The law school training must have been preceded by at least two years of resident undergraduate college work. Accounting graduates also must have had at least three years' experience in accounting or auditing or a combination of both.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Skipped Heart Beat Is Fairly Common

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a 38-year-old woman who developed a heart beat irregularity last month. I could best describe it as a skipped beat, followed by a very hard thump. This occurs more or less constantly throughout the day, although sometimes it does not occur for several hours.

My doctor did a heart tracing last month but while I was "hooked up" there was no thump. He says the problem is most likely insignificant and not to worry but I continue to feel the thumping and it can be very upsetting.

Should I continue as I am and "try to forget it," or would I be better advised to ask my doctor if he would try to find a physical reason. Incidentally, I don't drink or smoke.

Dear Reader — "Skipped beats" are fairly common. I saw a lot of them in apparently healthy pilots flying airplanes for the U.S. Air Force and even in heart tracings of the astronauts. Usually they were unnoticed by the pilots. Probably most of us have an occasional one of these but don't even know it.

In other people like yourself they can cause symptoms and be downright annoying. Of course, they make a person more anxious. Even in these cases usually there is nothing physical that the doctor can find even with an exhaustive and expensive examination.

I think you have done the right thing and now that you have had an examination you might try to forget it. I know that is asking a lot. If you can't and it still bothers you a great deal, go back to your doctor and he may give you some medicine that decreases the irritability of the heart and decreases or eliminates the thumping.

I am glad to hear that you don't drink or smoke since these habits can aggravate your problem. The doctor usually asks a person with your problem to eliminate coffee, stimulating drinks, alcohol and tobacco.

I have seen some healthy

North. "Here is another game you have presented to our opponents."

"What do you mean?" asked South. "I can't help it that diamonds failed to break."

Clubs had been opened and continued. South had ruffed the second club, drawn trumps and cashed the three high diamonds. West was left with the good jack and there was no way for South to avoid the loss of three heart tricks.

South had acted the part of Santa Claus just as North pointed out. If he had simply finessed the 10 of diamonds on the third lead of the suit he would have made his contract irrespective of where the jack of diamonds was located.

With the jack in the West hand South would be able to discard a heart on the fourth diamond. Put the jack in the East hand and East would score a surprise trick with it but then East would look around only to find that there were no more worlds to conquer.

A club lead would give South a chance to discard another heart on dummy's last diamond. A heart lead would set up dummy's king as a winner.

If the church doesn't show more concern and offer guidance in the field, he adds, "then people will decide that they have found one more area of their lives in which the church is either irrelevant or obstructionist."
Evidence of the mystical tendency has multiplied recently, including the growth in Eastern cults among youth, the charismatic "tongues" movement, healing services, religious communities, astrology, even demonology and witchcraft.
A recent book, "New Gods in America," by Peter Rowley, says adherents to new, unconventional religions in the country have increased in 10 years from 100,000 to 2.5 million.
Most of them are odd, esoteric varieties.
However, it is in the increasing interest and research in psychic phenomena that the Rev. Mr. Potts sees an area in which the churches particularly should be more involved.
It is "an explosively growing field," he writes in a Methodist weekly for pastors, the Advocate, and it deals with occur-

An Aquarium WORLD

It's a little world for these caged fish. Ponds seem prisons enough, but look what man did to them. The roaming space God gave these fish has been reduced to a pittance and that makes it very different. Life is hard enough to live without always having to be on view and having to constantly worry about whether or not you are pleasing the multitudes. But please the multitudes we must, if we are to survive. And that is the irony of it all. For the multitudes complain about what they see and loudly assert that they want change, then turn right around and condemn the man who tries to accomplish that change.

We are really like fish, no longer free to do as we wish, suppressed by walls built by others.

We can do as some, fuss and gripe and condemn present solutions without having anything better to offer. Or we can be like those fish and hang in there and try to survive with the hope that one day change will come and that once again we can live our lives as God intended. We can hope that one day our aquariums will be replaced by Gardens of Eden.

So They May See

Psalm 19

So They May Hear

THE HEAVENS DECLARE the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handy-work.

2. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge.

3. There is no speech nor language, where their voice is not heard.

4. Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun,

5. Which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race.

6. His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it: and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

7. The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple.

THE STATUTES of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes.

9. The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring for ever: the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.

10. More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb.

11. Moreover by them is thy servant warned: and in keeping of them there is great reward.

12. Who can understand his errors? cleanse thou me from secret faults.

13. Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over me: then shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great transgression.

14. Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.

Control to Stay But Still Aren't Clear

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has tried to make it perfectly clear that pay-price controls will stay until they work. But the controls themselves apparently aren't clear to the public.

The Internal Revenue Service has received more than one million inquiries about the rules, more than half of them on rents.

And the questions keep on coming. Latest figures show 117,000 inquiries were received by the Internal Revenue Service for the week ending Jan. 18.

The government's rules governing pay and prices are becoming increasingly complex. A recent booklet, published at 35 cents a copy and available through the U.S. Superintendent of Documents in Washington, takes more than 40 pages of fine print to list all the rules in place as of Jan. 1.

More rulings have been issued since then, and major additions and revisions are in the works.

It is far too early to tell if these rules will achieve the administration's goal of reducing last year's 3.4-per-cent inflation rate to between 2 and 3 per cent by the end of this year.

But the major outline of the administration's anti-inflation machinery, as it evolved over the past 2½ months, is now clear.

POLICY

President Nixon's Cost of Living Council, headed by Treasury Secretary John Connally, retains ultimate authority over the economy. Under it, the seven-member Price Commission regulates prices; the 15-member Pay Board, a dissenting body of business, public and union members, regulates wages and salaries. The IRS has assigned 3,000 agents to enforce controls.

Complicated Price Commission rules are aimed at bringing the average increase in all prices to no more than 2.5 per cent this year.

The Pay Board's general standard, which the board itself has frequently ignored for big, powerful unions, is that wages in new contracts can't go up more than 5.5 per cent a year, or 7 per cent in some narrowly defined special circumstances.

EXEMPTIONS

Not all wages and prices are subject to controls. The Cost of Living Council has exempted roughly 21 per cent of the average man's cost of living from federal controls.

The list of uncontrolled items includes raw farm products, raw seafood, life insurance and some individually contracted commercial insurance, postal rates, some custom products and services, exports, imports, damaged and used products, and sales of U.S. government property.

Also most real estate, rentals of new and rehabilitated housing, owner-occupied rentals of no more than four units, commercial and farm rents, stocks and bonds, stock brokers' fees, most tuition, interest, pay of Americans working and living abroad, pay of federal workers, federal fees and charges, wages below the $1.60 hourly federal minimum.

PRICES

Price Commission rules say generally that manufacturers and service organizations can't raise prices except to cover increased costs, reduced to reflect gains in worker productivity, and can't increase their profit margins.

Retailers and wholesalers, except for the small retailers who are exempt from controls, cannot increase profit margins or markups, meaning their prices can't rise unless their suppliers' prices rise.

Although profit margins are frozen, actual profits may rise if sales go up. Also, firms that have been losing money are subject to temporary special rules allowing them to at least break even. Special rules also apply to utilities, doctors, hospitals, insurance and residential rents.

The nation's 1,500 biggest firms must notify the Price Commission in advance of any proposed price increases. Medium-size companies report quarterly and small firms are subject only to spot checks.

The administration relies mainly on voluntary compliance with the rules, but admits they are so complicated that it is all but impossible for the average consumer to know if he is being overcharged.

RENTS

The rules are complex. The smallest landlords, those who own no more than four units and live in one of them, are free from federal controls. Also, units that were previously subject to state or local rent controls, chiefly in New York City and around Miami and Boston, continue under those rules.

For others, rents generally may go up automatically by 2.5 per cent after 30 days' notice to the tenant. In addition, landlords may pass along any new state or local government taxes, and certain fees. Increases also are allowable for improvements. Special rules apply to formula-determined rents, and different methods are used for determining the base rent depending on whether rental is by the month or week, or by longer lease.

WAGES

The Pay Board has begun to apply its 5.5-per-cent wage standard strictly to small unions, after falling into a pattern of granting far larger raises to big, powerful unions.

You May Be Ready For Tax Estimating

By RAY DE CRANE

You may not be finished with your tax chores for the year after completing your federal income tax return. How about an estimated return?

Such returns are due from high-salaried people whose withholding tax is insufficient to pay their total tax bill, from self-employed persons who have no withholding and from those taxpayers who, in addition to their regular income which is subject to withholding, have other sources of taxable income.

You should file an estimated tax return if your estimated tax (beyond your withholding tax credits, if any) is expected to be $40 or more and:

1. Your estimated gross income for the year includes more than $200 not subject to withholding (this could be dividends, interest, capital gains), or
 2. You are a head of a household or a surviving spouse expecting gross income of $10,000 or more, or
 3. You are an unmarried person—not a head of household or a surviving spouse—expecting gross income of more than $5,000, or
 4. A married person entitled to file a joint return and the combined income of both spouses is expected to be more than $10,000.
- The purpose of estimated returns is to keep all taxpayers on a current pay-as-you-go basis throughout the year. A form 1040-ES is required for this purpose.

If you have wages or salary subject to withholding, there is a way to avoid filing an estimated tax return and still escape the penalties for underwithholding.

Claim fewer exemptions than you are entitled to for withholding tax purposes. If you are married and have three dependent children you are entitled to five exemptions.

Reduce the number of exemptions so that a higher amount will be withheld from your income. Figure that each exemption eliminated will compensate for about $750 in income for the year.

Or you may simply designate a fixed additional sum you wish your payroll department to withhold from your earnings.

Value of Farmland Spirals

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The average value of farmland in the 48 contiguous states rose 5 per cent last year, from about $106 to $206 an acre, and in all probability something of the same will occur in 1972.

In some areas, in fact, it isn't unlikely that gains of 9 or 10 per cent will occur. Such as the case last year in Alabama, California, Delaware and Pennsylvania. And some counties reported bigger gains.

The average purchaser of a farm in Vermont in 1967 now has about a 50 per cent increase in value. In Mississippi a similar owner has a 45 per cent gain. In Washington, 23 per cent.

But isn't this something of a contradiction? We are told that people are leaving the farms. Each year there are fewer and fewer self-employed farmers. And statistics show a continuing migration from rural to metropolitan areas. What's happening to push up those farm prices?

Inflation, of course. A 5 per cent increase in, after all, little more than an adjustment for declining dollar power. But other factors play roles too, and they tell an interesting story of what Americans are up to. The biggest increases for any region were in the Northeast, which averaged 9 per cent, and the reason wasn't that people were interested in farming.

"The stronger values in this region," says the Agriculture Department, "were largely due to increased urban and recreation demand for farmland."

"Between Nov. 1, 1970 and Nov. 1, 1971, 35 per cent of the acres of farmland that were bought in the Northeast region were expected to be in other than agricultural use five years after purchase."

Much of the market activity in this region, the department states, "seems to represent purchases of rural homes and recreational sites."

In the Southeast, which reported an 8 per cent gain in acreage values, 25 per cent of farm real estate purchased last year was expected by 1976 to be in other than farm usage.

What are the chief factors here? The biggest percentages reported were "subdivisions," 7 per cent, and "commercial-industrial," 5 per cent. The Southeast, in other words, is industrializing. Its metropolises are spreading.

In the Southern Plains, which also reported an 8 per cent increase in farmland values, the explanation offered by the Agriculture Department is "increased emphasis on feeder cattle."

For the most part, however, the explanation for rising values seems to be that the farms are gradually but steadily going for other uses.

In the Northern Plains, for example, only 3 per cent of the acreage that changed hands during the year was expected to shift out of agricultural use within five years.

And so, predictably, the smallest rise in values, just 2 per cent, was reported for the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas and Nebraska. Farms there were bought and sold for farming, not recreation or industrialization.

For those who want to draw their own conclusions—and there are many other conclusions to be drawn, all of them revealing basic changes in the American way of life—here are the indexes of average values per acre, based on a 1967 value of 100:

Northeast 148, Lake States 131, Corn Belt 116, Northern Plains 113, Appalachian 127, Southeast 143, Delta 137, Southern Plains 131, Mountain 117, Pacific 116. For the 48 contiguous states, the index last year reached 124.

GOPs Giving Advice to Democratic Candidates

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-ranking Nixon administration official is giving out advice on the handling of Democratic presidential candidates critical of President Nixon's Vietnam peace plan.

"If the Democrats as a party are to earn respect for sound and constructive criticism, they should seek the means of quieting the irrational line of comment such as emanating from the presidential candidates' lineup," Herbert G. Klein, White House director of communications, said Thursday.

"When one reads the comments of some of the Democratic presidential candidates, such as Sens. Muskie and McGovern, one can only conclude that they feel they were in a desperate race to see whether or not their criticism of the President's peace plan would be published more quickly than that of Hanoi," Klein said in an address in the nation's capital to alumni of Washington & Jefferson College.

Sen. George McGovern, meanwhile, also in Washington, continued his battering of Nixon's peace plan providing for withdrawal of all American forces from Vietnam within six months if Hanoi would agree to release U.S. prisoners of war.

McGovern said the President was "exploiting the heartaches" of the families of POWs by making it appear the war is being fought to free prisoners.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, on the campaign trail in Florida, meanwhile, told newsmen he could not say whether he would choose a woman, a black, or a representative of any special group as his running mate if he gets the Democratic nomination.

"That statement I made about a black was to a question at a private meeting and I gave an honest answer," the Maine senator said.

Another Democratic aspirant, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, accused Democratic party leaders of wanting him out of the primaries.

Hartke told a news conference in Washington that members of the executive committee of the New Hampshire Democratic party advised him to leave the race there and "asked me why I wanted to upset their situation. They said it was tilt and tilt."

Hartke said he would not leave the New Hampshire race, and, moreover, will enter all the remaining preference primaries.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson talked with astute about politics, politicking and politicians in the course of an hour's taped conversation on CBS Thursday night.

The talk, leisurely but purposefully nudged by Walter Cronkite, touched wide areas including the high cost of campaigning—"Every candidate for office is beholden to groups," Johnson recalled that the first time he ran he had to borrow $10,000 from his wife.

It was an interesting program partly because it showed a side of Lyndon Johnson that rarely surfaces in his formal speeches.

The program was followed by a filmed documentary of the arrests, jailing and prosecution of two men, one for armed robbery and the other for petty larceny. A CBS camera crew was in Indianapolis in July 1970 working on CBS's "Justice in America" series and was on the scene for each arrest. The two cases were followed to their conclusion—one took a year.

The arrests were for small crimes of a kind that clutter lower courts all over the country. One man was white, the other black. Both were poor, both had been drinking, both had been arrested before. There were witnesses to both crimes and little doubt of the men's guilt.

What was impressive was the remote, polite impersonality with which the two men were treated during the preliminary stages. Neither was able to put up bail, but neither stayed in jail long.

Archie Bennett, the Negro, was arrested for taking $29 from a gas station till, pleaded not guilty and had a quick, casual trial after one night in jail. The judge found him guilty, suspended a 90-day jail sentence and ordered him to make

Welfare Children Must Go to School

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Board of Social Services voted Thursday to continue a rule requiring welfare children to be in school to remain eligible for aid.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that such a requirement is invalid.

The board voted to continue the rule in Arkansas until the end of the current school term or until federal authorities direct an end to the rule, whichever comes first.

A suit pending in U.S. District Court here contests the constitutionality of the rule as it applies to the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

Ivan Smith, board attorney, suggested that the board revoke its rule, then ask for dismissal of the federal suit lest federal support for the state

AFDC program be jeopardized.

Board members supported the rule, however, with several saying it would be incentive for some pupils to remain in school.

The vote is not binding on Dalton Jennings, state commissioner of social services, but amounts to a recommendation.

He said repeal of the rule immediately could "save some grief" in Marianna, where about 3,700 black pupils are boycotting school.

Under the rule, Jennings said, those pupils in the boycott who receive welfare payments would lose their benefits about the middle of next month.

"It could lead to serious problems in a tense situation," he said.

The board also voted increases in state payments to nursing homes for care of welfare patients: 70 cents per patient per day in the top category of intermediate care, 50 cents in the second category and 25 cents in the third.

The board also instructed the Social Services Division staff to produce a plan by the board's next meeting for providing incentives to welfare mothers who take steps to halt reproduction.

Dr. J. W. Downs of Little Rock, a board member, said he favored the idea of offering bonuses for women who do not have babies. The aim is to reduce the amount of welfare aid to families of dependent children, he said.

Downs said the state could save money by preventing children from being added to welfare rolls.

One-Fourth of Mankind

1911—Off With the Pigtaile, Symbol of Subjection to the Manchus

We no longer look to the West. Our faces are turned toward Russia.

In 1905, a momentous thing happened in China: The ancient Confucianist civil service examinations were abolished.

Finally convinced of China's weakness, the Dowager Empress Tz'u Hsi assented to reforms, including a promised constitution and parliament. It was too late, if not too little.

That same year also saw the founding of a revolutionary party, the Kuomintang, by a patriot and expatriate named Sun Yat-sen, who envisioned a thoroughgoing social revolution.

On a fund-raising tour among overseas Chinese in 1911 when revolt erupted in the city of Wuchang on October 10 (the famous "Double Ten"), Sun hurried home to accept the provisional presidency of the newly proclaimed Republic of China. By the end of 1911, most of southern China had thrown off the rule of the Manchus. A long period of anarchy ensued.

Rejecting both capitalism and Marxism, Sun Yat-sen sought something between the two. As later outlined in his "Three Principles of the People," first must come national greatness during a period of tutelage by the Kuomintang, or Nationalist Party. The Chinese must substitute national loyalty for family and clan loyalty.

A new China was indeed emerging, at least among the urbanized and educated. The everyday language began to be used in literature and the authoritarian family structure to break down. (One rebel against parental authority was an assistant librarian at the University of Peking—Mao Tse-tung.)

Another epic revolution—the Russian—broke place in this decade. When the Bolsheviks offered to give up the special privileges (but not the territories) wrung from China by the czars,

A Humble Student of Marx Named Mao

Sun believed China had finally found a friend. He agreed to a formal alliance with the Soviet Union in 1923. The Chinese Communists, who had founded their party in 1921, were ordered by the Kremlin to join the Kuomintang.

Sun sent his young chief-of-staff, Chiang Kai-shek, to Moscow to study the Red army.

Sun died in 1925, his dream of a renewed, reunited China unrealized. In 1926, Chiang launched a successful expedition against the warlords, who had arisen after the fall of the Manchus. Then, alarmed at the growing influence of the Communists, he took the decisive step of his career.

In April, 1927, his troops seized the Red stronghold of Shanghai, instituting a reign of terror. Chiang, now virtual dictator, purged the Reds from the Kuomintang.
